USING THIS WELL

Walk through the whole page before you go in, so nothing is a surprise. Point to where you are now and to what comes next. If a step gets skipped or moves, say so out loud and cross it off together: knowing the plan changed is easier than wondering why.

CARDS TO CUT OUT

Print, cut, laminate. Add velcro dots and build the day one card at a time, or use two cards as a simple first and then.

WHY CARDS HELP

A card you can move gives a child something to do with a transition instead of only being told about it. Moving the finished card to an all done envelope makes the ending concrete.
